Purpose: To show your understanding of one of the common weather fronts.

Problem: You have officially been hired as a member of the science toy company! You are required to design a draft to submit for consideration. The theme for the toy is “Storm Front Action Heroes”. Our toy company is looking to capitalize on the weather related craze that will soon hit our nation.

Requirements: The design must be a creative action hero, it must be colored (no stick figures), and you must include a description of at least 3 powers they have. These powers must be related to the types of weather that are produced by these different fronts or characteristics of the front.

Use the foldable or a Chromebook to look up more specific types of weather that are brought in by fronts.

Action Heroes can NOT be stick figures. If you are not that great at drawing please use a Chromebook to help you trace. Action heroes must take up the entire space on the back of this page.

Small drawings will be required to be redone.
